
Each step fixes the failure of the one before; the last step is imposed by nature.